

Biography

---

Mr. Carlo Melbihess

Director – Facilities & Site Services

Mr. Carlo Melbihess is the director of Facilities and Site Services at Idaho National Laboratory with 29 years of experience in facilities and operations. He leads INL's largest support organization, which is responsible for lab's non-nuclear facilities, supporting infrastructure, emergency response and essential support services that enable INL's mission and other site contractors.

Prior to joining INL, Melbihess worked in the Facilities and Operations directorates at the U.S. Department of Energy's Pacific Northwest National Laboratory, Oak Ridge National Laboratory, and Brookhaven National Laboratory. Most recently, he was the deputy assistant laboratory director for Facilities and Operations at Brookhaven National Laboratory. He also served overseas as the operations director for Battelle Science & Technology Malaysia in Kuala Lumpur. He holds a bachelor's in civil engineering from the University of Washington. He served on the College of Eastern Idaho Foundation Board of Directors for nine years, and currently serves on the Idaho Career and Technical Education Foundation Board of Directors. He takes a personal interest in math, science and technical educational programs.