As a member of this community, I understand that my choices and behaviors during the COVID-19 crisis affect not only my own health and safety, but also the health and safety of my colleagues, friends and neighbors — with potentially significant consequences for others.

In recognition of the potential consequences of my choices, and as a dedicated employee of Idaho National Laboratory, I commit to:

- Make the health and safety of myself and other members of the INL community a value.
- Hold myself and my colleagues accountable to INL’s health and safety guidelines related to COVID-19, including but not limited to wearing a face covering, social distancing, and hand-washing.
- Complete my COVID-19 self-symptom check as required before entering any INL facility.
- Stay home when sick and notify my supervisor.
- Use good personal judgment when traveling to avoid bringing illness into the community and laboratory. Speak with my supervisor when planning travel outside the state or to Idaho counties heavily impacted by the virus.
- Stop work if I notice a COVID-related safety concern. Practice positive behaviors by engaging in respectful intervention, dialogue and understanding when I hold others accountable to health and safety guidelines.
- Respect and understand the personal choices others may make to protect the health and safety of themselves and their loved ones.
- Communicate any concerns about health and safety to my supervisor.
